he shipped on the vessel Frederick, and subsequently on the brig Ann and Elizabeth.

BARNEM AT THE GARDEN.

The Baraum and Lizabeth.

The Baraum and London combined shows will open this evening in Madison Square Garden. Everything is on a larger scale than in any preceding year. Every department has been extensively added to—the menageries by the purchase of and birth of many rare animals, among which is the famous baby elephant. There are enough young animals to make a veritable baby animal show.

FALLING FROM A FERRYBOAT.

As the ferryboat at Thirty-fourth-st, at 1 a. m. yesterday was about to leave the New-York shore, a man evidently under the influence of liquor, wearing a sack coat and a soft slouch hat, stargered on board and made his way to the torward part of the ve-sel. One of the deck hands noticed him leaning over the guard rail. The next moment he lurched forward and fell into the water. An alarm was promptly given and the engines were reversed, but no trace of the body could be found.

ENEXPLAINED DEATH OF AN ITALIAN. UNEXPLAINED DEATH OF AN ITALIAN.

Coroner Knox took the testimony of witnesses yesterday concerning the death of Pasquale Marro, the Italian rag-picker, who was found with his eye gonged out, and in a dving condition in front of the rum-shop at No. 40 Rutgers-st., at 5 a.m., Saturday, Joseph Coates testified that he saw a knife on the walk after Marro's body had been removed; and Thomas O'Reilly, a mik boy, said that the body was not in the street at a quarter to 5, but was there at four minutes after. The testimony threw no light on the circumstances of Marro's death.
